

FIFA 20 introduced First Touch Analysis (FTA), a new “technology that improves the overall speed and accuracy of players’ first touches.” This data is used to improve the appearance of the ball and players’ first touches when they receive the ball. First Touch Analysis is built on the new “character animation system,” that brings more confidence to players when they receive the ball. A new feature called Goalkeeper Report highlights opportunities for goalkeepers in the attacking third of the field.

Goalkeeper Report indicates the chance of goalkeepers becoming successful in one-on-one situations. Goalkeepers can keep track of their performance and improve their position on the list by improving on their save percentage, save number, and bad touches per minute. A new feature called “Goalkeeper Intelligence,” provides a shield between the goalie and defenders. The system considers the specific position of the defender, location of the goalkeeper, and defender-to-goals distance and further enhances the goalkeeper’s decision-making when making a save.

Several new squad make-up parameters are available. XIs have new passing intelligence and ability to track back on defense. New XIs can make a long-pass at a higher rate than other XIs. Many new XIs are more willing to dribble and have a new ability to play a one-versus-two or a deep pass. FIFA

21 introduced “Intelligent Defending System,” which enhances the skills and behaviors of defenders. Defenders can now more accurately follow the movements of attackers and aggressively press them in a manner that promotes turnovers and counterattacks. “Line-breaking” is a new feature in FIFA 21 that enables the real-time breaking down of opposition defenses. If an attacking team has possession of the ball, they can carefully pick the right areas of the field and also look to exploit one-on-one situations with the goalkeeper. By knowing where to find spaces, the team can use specific movement patterns to break down opposing defenses and create dangerous scoring opportunities. FIFA 19 introduced “Intelligent Player Trajectories,” which provides more realistic player movement.

Trajectories of players follow realistic patterns that provide a more natural sense of player movement in a goal scoring opportunity or counterattack. Player trajectories are calculated based on the position of players relative to each other, along with pitch dimensions and characteristics, playing style,
