What's new in Pair Matching Puzzle Connect - Expansion Pack 1:

Arrange the numbers so that they line up in pairs to complete the circuit. When the components switch on together, the flow will stay on the same side of the board. You can only move the number from one horizontal position to another horizontal position. On one side of the game board: - positive and negative numbers can be mixed. (cont) - negative numbers can only move to the left of a pair of positive numbers. - positive numbers can only move to the right of a pair of negative numbers. - you can't move a negative number directly to the left of a positive number. Number combinations can also be moved down vertically. A total of 8 moves This game uses up to four boards You may need to compare the number the game to other numbers and see what they are You will have to practice this game a lot if you want to get good at it. Nothing gets better with practice. Puzzles always go beyond just the movement of pieces on the board. The Look and Feel Each puzzle piece is printed with very detailed and accurate barcodes. This guarantees that the game board matches the same code as the game board you received. I am not fond of the matte surface of the puzzle pieces. I much prefer the glossy finish the game is printed on. (This is just my preference.) Each board has eight fields so you can probably figure out how the puzzle works using only those eight fields. The puzzles you can make are really vast and the game will get pretty complex after awhile. I really appreciate that not all fields are equivalent. This means that a puzzle with a great deal of restrictions will be frustrating to work on. The Rules 1. Cut up the game board you received into four to eight separate puzzles. - Deal with your game board to only cut apart puzzles. There will be no crosses, straight cuts and one main cut to where the board will be cut to make the four or eight separate puzzles. 2. There are no double printed pieces. Each piece should have a code corresponding to it. 3. Each puzzle should have at least 11 to 16 pieces depending how big you cut the board. The game board is about five times longer than it is wide. That means you can have four puzzles that have eight pieces each. Each puzzle has to include 11 or more pieces. If you
