Assetto Corsa Competizione is the most realistic racing simulation ever. Powered by the same Physically Based Dynamics (PBD) engine that powered Assetto Corsa and Assetto Corsa Competizione in 2015, it has been extensively expanded with new features and content such as GT4 cars, new circuit, new liveries, race start procedure and much more. GT4 PACK DLC: The GT4 Pack DLC provides total 11 cars from the GT4 European Series from SRO Motorsports Group. This DLC provides you the most comprehensive collection of official vehicles including detailed liveries, accurate track data, realistic graphics, realistic engine sound and many more. * This content is sold separately to the main game of Assetto Corsa Competizione The smallest city in the United States – Dayton, Ohio – will be featured in Assetto Corsa Competizione. City streets are peppered with diverse street corners, where you can shop for groceries or go ice skating. Attractions like museum, theater and performing arts center can be found in the outskirts of the city. We've prepared a special scenario for "Dayton" that's suitable for beginners – North West – and for more advanced players – South West – at a total length of about 15 kilometers. Dayton features a diverse city layout, that includes a downtown area, different neighborhoods and suburban roads. So it's an ideal route to test your driving skills on, particularly on street circuits. The layout of the city is composed of different sections, which are made up of different smaller routes. During the race, street corners are present and you have to maneuver the vehicle through this many different kinds of road. Some may be straighter routes, others require you to negotiate tight, narrow streets with tight corners. You have to pay attention to all these details in order to get the most out of your driving skills. The course shows the layout of the city streets and provides you with exact instructions for your route. As you play a new route, the minimap updates automatically, so you know exactly where you're going. You have to be aware of the traffic situation on the route and the movements of other vehicles, to get the most out of your car and put your driving skills to test. The best drivers will finish the course in second place. Assassin's Creed IV: Black Flag is coming to the PC, PlayStation 3, and Xbox 360. In the

This adventure presents the first half of the collected adventures from the Call of Cthulhu line. In this first half of the collection, you will take on the role of one Andrew Keetling, a successful and wealthy Bostonian, in 1872. A man with a promising future, Keetling is kidnapped and held captive in a mansion of madness, the house of a mad doctor who calls himself the Black Cat. You must solve the mystery of who the Black Cat really is and figure out how to escape the clutches of his sinister medicine. -In 1920s Boston -Full of characters and intrigue, set in a time and place where life was changing -Amid the bustle and hectic pace of the 20s you must solve the mystery of Andrew Keetling's kidnapping -Hint of intrigue throughout, some taking the shape of a ghost story as well -Three character arcs to play out -Includes a free appendix with a play through of the adventure with specific modifications recommended for that section. Buy from GMV and manage your subscriptions to Call of Cthulhu here. About This Game: This adventure presents the second half of the collected adventures from the Call of Cthulhu line. In this second half, you will take on the role of a receptionist at the offices of a law firm in 1949. A shocking incident at the NYPD will send three individuals down a road to insanity, will a chance encounter of one of those three and an old friend open a door to danger and horrors that will take on a life of their own? -In New York City in 1949 -A visit to the offices of one of the law firms in a city known for many things -Meet three characters in the 3rd person view -If you were to play this in a campaign, you will be going to the police precinct and a mystery, but not necessarily the one you are reading it from. Find out what it is later. -Hint of supernatural elements throughout -Includes a free appendix with a play through of the adventure with specific modifications recommended for that section. Buy from GMV and manage your subscriptions to Call of Cthulhu here. About This Game: This collection is the first ever released for the new Mythos system. Long unavailable in the eyes of many fans, this collection brings these Cthulhu Mythos mysteries back into the play community. These standalone adventures are about as old as time, and as timeless as Cthulhu itself. -In 1930s New England -Set c9d1549cdd

Developer :Andrew Linklater Andrew Linklater (born 20 January 1971) is a former Australian rules footballer who played for the Essendon Football Club in the Australian Football League (AFL). Linklater was taken with the second pick in the 1989 VFL Draft from Calder Cannons. He played at fullback for Essendon between 1991 and 1995 and was recruited by Richmond with the 24th overall pick in the 1996 AFL Draft. Linklater would play only one game for Richmond, in 1997, and then spent five seasons with Collingwood. Linklater spent the 2000 and 2001 seasons at Richmond but then joined St Kilda in 2002 where he played six seasons. In 2008, he rejoined Richmond but retired at the end of the 2009 AFL season. Goodies USA is testing a robotic carrot harvester that could keep produce shelves stocked with those little treat-sized carrots by the end of the year. The car-based machine picks up carrots at the front of a moving vehicle, then places them in bags for people to grab on their way into the supermarket. Goodies USA has put the technology in development for about two years and plans to sell it to other companies. So far, it has raised $3 million in funding. The company said it plans to roll out a prototype vehicle to test in California in the summer. "When we drive through someone's parking spot, they don't even have to move their car," said CEO Jim Muirhead. "It's really a straight-forward take-away experience. It makes vegetables accessible." Goodies said its technology solves two problems at once. It also can drop off carrots into an overhead bin that holds two bags, one for the buyer and one for the retailer. "A shopper can easily select a bag of carrots, pick up her bag, and go is coming to the Vive, but it may just be the best tower defence game for Rift as well. Image credit: Mikomogura - Matika Rennie The first thing you'll notice when you start watching a play session of Random Tower Defence VR is that you won't be able to steal any secrets or tricks from the screen. You could try using an RTS cheat app, but that'll destroy any kind of tension or realism you're having. The developer that's working on this, Behemoths Interactive, has put together a whole new way of designing a tower defence game, that's made to keep you thoroughly engaged on the headset rather than rattling off a list of special moves before each defence mission. This is a VR tower defence game for VR players. It's an intense game where you shouldn't just rush your way through the levels, instead you need to be able to play it safely. It's a VR tower defence game for VR players. Random Tower Defense is an intense experience and one that will challenge you to think about tower defence and RTS games in completely new ways. It's a little bitty room in the back of a medium sized office, at the Vectorworks headquarters in Horsham, West Sussex. If you've been watching the live game streams for the past year, then you'll have seen that everyone has their own name. Akinori Imai, Joe Smith, D. Morgan and I have done a lot of the basic routine maintenance in the game - including roughing in the tower locations, and doing some of the core gameplay programming. To pull together all these little pieces, we've had a very busy production schedule. Image credit: Mikomogura - William Scott We started the trial with the Vive, but we knew we'd want to work with both VR headsets. When we made the decision to push to the start of development, our thinking was that we'd develop for the headset first. We knew that we wanted to go to as many VR GDCs as possible, and even more press. This meant that we'd need to get it to a playable state for both headsets as quickly as possible. Valve's support has been great, and we got a green light to code for both headsets and we're committed to working closely
