THOMAS, Appellant, v. Florence THOMAS, a Minor, etc., Respondent. No. 22526. Kansas City Court of Appeals. Missouri. May 16, 1956. Lathrop, Righter, Gordon & Parker, Kansas City, for appellant. Wilson, Givens, Dally & Baine, Kansas City, for respondent. BROADDUS, Presiding Judge. This is an appeal from an order denying respondent's motion for new trial. The defendant, B. G. Thomas, and respondent, Florence Thomas, were married on March 28, 1952. Their son was born of the marriage on August 29, 1952. On May 17, 1954, respondent filed a suit for divorce in the Circuit Court of Jackson County, Missouri. In his answer, the defendant denied the material allegations of the complaint and asked that the custody of the minor child be awarded to him. On August 20, 1954, the trial court, after hearing the evidence, granted a divorce to respondent and awarded custody of the child to the respondent. The defendant appealed from this order and on the second appeal the Supreme Court modified the judgment of the trial court and awarded the custody of the child to the defendant. See Thomas v. Thomas, Mo.Sup., 230 S.W.2d 1. *386 In June, 1955, the defendant filed a motion for change of custody on the ground that respondent, after her divorce, commenced a series of activities designed to alienate the affections of the child from him, and because of such activities the child

All in Your Head" What do you want from your office environment? Do you want an environment of cooperation? Do you want an environment of creativity? Do you want an environment where you feel challenged? If you answered yes to any of those questions, you need to make sure you're getting what you want. This may seem like a rather sweeping statement, but it's true. Recently I sat down with an office manager who has been with the company for 2-1/2 years and had been dissatisfied with her work environment and the status quo there
